CONNECTICUT SENATOR ASKS FOR STRAW VOTE

Benjamin H. Hewitt, of New London, Conn., a member of the Connecticut state senate, wants all republican state senators in every one of the great, free and untrammelled states of this glorious union to express themselves on the subject of who shall be the standard bearer for the Grand Old Party this year. He is taking a straw vote, and all New Mexico republican senators should send their straws to Mr. Hewitt at New London.

Mr. Hewitt's letter to the Journal is as follows:
"This is the time of straw votes and polls on the fast approaching presidential race. Being a member of the Connecticut senate, it occurred to me that a poll of the state senators throughout the country would yield a fairly accurate expression of the people's choice. I have therefore undertaken to put the matter before them. Would you mind helping me by announcing this poll through your columns and urging your senators to send me before February 1 their first, second and third choices for the republican nomination and their opinions as to the most important plank to be inserted in the platform?"

The result will, I believe, be very interesting and if you wish I will send you the figures. If it is not asking too much I would request that each state senator be sent a marked copy of the paper containing this announcement.

There will be the usual services at Temple Albert this evening at 7:45 o'clock. Rabbi Moise Bergman will preach, taking as his subject "A Crisis."

WAR MAY COME SUDDENLY UPON COUNTRY, SAYS GENERAL CARTER

Veteran Military Man Declares People of Nation Are Not Awake to Necessity for Adequate Preparation.

COMPULSORY SERVICE IS MOST NECESSARY

But Volunteers Must Be Depended Upon in Present Condition of Public Opinion, Is His View.

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE)
Washington, Jan. 20.—Any military policy adequate to the nation's needs must recognize the fact that wars come suddenly and there must be instant readiness to meet the attack, said Major General W. H. Carter, recently retired, in a statement today before the senate military committee.

"War is a condition which may be forced upon us any day through diplomatic notes," he said, "without action by congress." Great Britain's declaration of war against Germany and the Japanese attack upon Russia were cited as illustrating the possibilities.

Basics of Continental System.
General Carter laid before the committee a report submitted by him to the secretary of war last April before his retirement and while he was commander of the department of Hawaii. It was prepared at the secretary's request for his views as to a proper military policy for the United States and it seemed evident, he said, that it formed the basis for the continental army scheme now contemplated even to the name, which Mr. Garrison had proposed.

General Carter recommended increasing the standing army to such an extent that a mobile force of 131,500 men would be available in the United States; that the federal volunteers be organized and trained on the basis of an infantry regiment to each congressional district and that additional appropriations be made for the military.

System of Enlistment.
He did not believe, however, that a period of intensive training for federal volunteers could be accomplished. Instead he proposed that a colonel for each volunteer regiment be appointed from the regular army and also a non-commissioned staff, that the troops be enlisted for two years and trained in such ways as might be practicable in each district. In that time, he said, about the same amount of instruction could be given as would be the case in six months of intensive training.

Compulsory Service Needed.
Like all other regular army officers who have appeared before the military committee, General Carter thought compulsory military service was the only means of fully insuring the nation against attack though he believed it unwise to attempt to enact such a measure at present, saying that the young men of the country should be given an opportunity to come forward as volunteers.

"In much traveling about the country," he said, "I have seen nothing whatever to convince me that our people are now impressed with the necessity of going to compulsory military service. They never have been put under such pressure by an enemy as would bring them to agree to such a course."

Smaller and More Regiments.
While General Carter's recommendations for the regular army contemplate about the same forces as that proposed by Secretary Garrison, he has suggested a radical change in organization for all arms which would produce smaller regiments and therefore a greater number of units. The huge regiments of several thousand men used in some European armies, he said, were wholly unsuited to American conditions and he dismissed as not worthy of consideration the suggestion that sixteen inch howitzers would be needed for the mobile troops. American roads would not permit the use of such weapons, he said, and in any defensive war the country might become involved in there would be much open fighting and little trench warfare.

Lessons of Civil War.
For that very reason he advocated reducing the size of tactical divisions, returning to the lessons of the civil war, American roads, he said, would not permit the handling of great bodies of troops over parallel routes in many places as was the case in Europe and training of general officers for field operations was imperative. He remarked that he was himself the only American army officer who had commanded tactical divisions in the fields in the last forty years.

The general offered, and Chairman Chamberlain accepted, his services in aiding the committee in drafting its military bills. He had much to do with writing the organization law under which the army now operates.

NEWS NOTES from BY DAISY DEAN MOVIELAND

Frank Daniels, for years one of the foremost comic opera comedians on the American stage, has signed up a contract to appear exclusively in motion pictures for the Vitaphone Company of America. Arrangements have been completed to make the best use of Mr. Daniels' talents as a humorist, and to present him before the motion picture public in vehicles that are expected to win for him in motion pictures the reputation he now enjoys in comic opera.

A series of shorter comedies have been selected for the purpose of letting the public see Daniels more often and in a great variety of humorous situations. He will be under the direction of C. J. Williams, who directed Daniels' two former films.

MUSTANG GIRL'S TACT

Anna Little, the American "Mustang" star, motored down to Los Angeles recently to deliver congratulations in person at the home of two film folk and to have a peek at the pink and white little new arrival.

"Whom does the baby look like?" asked the mother.

Anna looked closely for a moment, then, in true diplomatic fashion, she replied:

"I think he's neutral."

PEARL WHITE IN ROLE OF Nihilist

"The King's Game," in which James K. Hackett starred for two seasons, has been filmed by Pathé, with Pearl White, George Probert and Sheldon Lewis in the principal roles. The story centers about the extraordinary resemblance between a young Russian nobleman and a nihilist. Pearl White is seen in the pleasant pastime of making bombs for her nihilist father.

THE BIOGRAPH BABY

At the age when most children are still a little afraid of the big world, five-year-old Zoe Bech of the Biograph players swims like a duck in boisterous water and rides a horse at full gallop.

It was in the making of "Packer Jim's Guardianship" that little Zoe gave an exhibition of riding which caused the professionals on the scene

Ethel Barrymore.

Ethel Barrymore, who has long enjoyed a great reputation on the legitimate stage, has joined the movies at what is declared to be the highest price ever paid a film actor. The Metro Pictures Corporation has agreed to pay her $10,000 for each picture in which she appears.

To mount the horse she climbed stirrup-high with the aid of a bench before her father's cabin door, then scrambled up into the saddle, bestrode it, and was off.

Essanay, on January 17, released a picturization of Clyde Fitch's widely known play, "Captain Jinks." It will feature Ann Murdock. Like all of Clyde Fitch's plays which have been adapted for the screen, it is certain to prove entertaining.

George Hoffelms, who was up in the Cochiti mining district doing the assessment work on his several mining claims, returned to the city yesterday. He states that the Cochiti were visited by a heavy snow a few days ago, but when he left Bland early yesterday morning the weather had turned warm and a drizzling rain set in, making the roads almost impassable for traveling. Mr. Hoffelms predicts considerable mining in that district with the opening of spring.

Woman Injured by Fractious Horse.
Deming, Jan. 20.—Mrs. J. T. Bailey, who lives about four miles out of town, met with an accident Tuesday afternoon on Gold avenue, breaking her arm and bruising her face badly. It was caused by her horse becoming fractious, running and throwing her out of the buggy. Dr. Vickers attended her. The arm was set, and she returned to the ranch later in the day.

HE COULD HARDLY GO.
"About two years ago I got down on my back until I hardly could go," writes Solomon Heunette, Flint River, Mo. "I got a box of Foley Kidney Pills and they straightened me right up." Common symptoms of kidney trouble are backache, headache, rheumatic pains, soreness and stiffness, puffiness under eyes, blurred vision, sleep disturbing bladder troubles, and a languid, tired feeling. Foley Kidney Pills help to eliminate the poisonous waste matter that causes these symptoms. Sold everywhere.

SAYS BODY IS A POISON FACTORY

Urges Everyone to Drink Glass of Hot Water Before Breakfast.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of combustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infect the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and protein-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.
